Challenges in SEO Backlink Management: A Critical Industry Pain Point

Backlinks are one of the most powerful SEO ranking factors. Managing them, however, remains a major operational challenge for professionals and agencies. Tracking, maintaining, and reporting on backlinks is a time-consuming, fragmented, and error-prone process — often relying on spreadsheets and manual oversight.

SEO teams face significant obstacles that slow down workflows and impact results including:

- Disorganized link tracking: Managing hundreds or thousands of backlinks across projects in the absence of a centralized system leads to errors, lost data, and inefficiencies.
- Chaotic back-and-forth communication with SEO agencies: Working with SEO agencies is often tedious, with link-building opportunities scattered across spreadsheets and emails, making the process slow and inefficient.
- Limited reporting capabilities: Creating branded, insightful reports requires hours of manual formatting, pulling SEO specialists away from necessary strategic work.
- A lack of real-time monitoring: When backlinks are removed, broken, or deindexed, SEO teams often discover the issue too late — damaging rankings and credibility.
- Pricey alternative solutions: Most SEO platforms offering backlink management are expensive and complex, making them inaccessible to many professionals and agencies.

For many SEO teams, these same inefficiencies result in lost time, decreased productivity, and missed opportunities to optimize rankings. Drawing from her 15 years of SEO experience and insight from both in-house marketing teams and SEO agencies, Alena Astravukh set out to create an all-in-one solution that would tackle the biggest obstacles faced by link-building specialists and SEO agencies alike.
