CIPRIANI FOOD

Italy's finest with style

Four generations of Cipriani's has turned a restaurant into a universally recognized icon of hospitality, which nobody has yet succeeded in replicating. The obsessive attention to detail and uncompromising quality has led to the establishment of Cipriani Food. Luxury in simplicity finds its core meaning in the highest quality Artisanal food products.

Harry's Bar Venice

On May 13, 1931, Giuseppe Cipriani Senior opened Harry's Bar in Venice. Over the years, Harry's Bar became the place where writers, painters, artists, aristocrats, kings and queens would meet. Among them, there were: Barbara Hutton, Katharine Hepburn, Gary Cooper, Giancarlo Menotti, Peggy Guggenheim, Orson Welles, Frank Lloyd Wright, Joe di Maggio, Truman Capote, and Ernest Hemingway. The keys to the success of this tiny bar were: service, freedom, and lack of imposition.

IN HIS OWN WORDS

The unbearable lightness of elegance.

The secret of Cipriani isn't about what can be seen or touched, but what can be felt and sensed. It is intangible but palpable. It can't be patented, but even after ninety-three years it hasn't been duplicated by others.
